POSITIONS VACANT

Wycliffe Bible Translators

Young Adult Internships

There's a very exciting opportunity for young adults to work for 6-12 months as interns in Darwin, learning about Bible translation and Indigenous ministry. Wycliffe's partner, the Australian Society for Indigenous Languages (AuSIL), is looking for individuals who are eager to work with Indigenous Australians, develop their translation skills and champion future Bible translation. Interns would be expected to partner with churches and friends to build a supporter base who can pray for them and cover their living and travel expenses.

What if your administrative skills could help put Scripture into the hands of Indigenous Australians?

Would you move to Darwin to work with our partner organisation, the Australian Society for Indigenous Languages (AuSIL)?

AuSIL's translation and Scripture engagement workers are currently carrying a significant administrative load, taking time away from their primary work. We are urgently looking for an organised, capable and Christ-focused person to join the Darwin team and take on this essential support role.

Your administration will free our current team members to focus on translation work and sharing God's Word in Indigenous languages. You would not need to have linguistic or Indigenous language backgrounds, simply strong organisational skills, initiative, good computer skills and a desire to help others.

NEW MEMBERS

Jono and Phoebe Chen

Jono and Phoebe are from Sydney – Phoebe originally from the Blue Mountains and Jono from the Northern Beaches. They're both studying at Sydney Missionary & Bible College, Phoebe full-time, and Jono part-time while he works as an English as a second language teacher at a local high school. They joined Wycliffe Australia because they'd like to help support the work of Bible translation in Papua New Guinea through their skills of teaching and pastoral care.

To support Jono and Phoebe, visit wycliffe.org.au/member/jono-phoebe/ or fill in the Response Form on the other side of this page.
